Men's counselling

Having a chat with another bloke about your situation can really help. The types of issues that men often come in about include:

- anger and frustration
- anxiety and depression
- feeling disconnected or isolated
 - relationship issues
- dealing with separation/divorce and the loss of day-to-day contact with their children
 - conflict with their ex-partners
- co-parenting and fathering issues
 - mid-life transitions.

Men & Family Counselling isn't just a service for men.

Other services include:

- Couple counselling (skills and strategies to resolve relationship challenges and improve relationships)
- Focused psychological strategies for mental health issues (depression, anxiety, grief and loss, trauma, PTSD)
- Women's counselling.

Medicare rebates are available for individual counselling if you have a referral from your GP and they have completed a Mental Health Care Plan for you.

Child, Adolescent and Family Therapy

We have a dedicated child and adolescent therapy room designed to accommodate children and young people. Services include:

- Individual counselling for children and adolescents aged 4 and upwards (mental health issues, grief/loss, parental separation, emotional regulation, bullying, anger and conflict).
- Parenting sessions to help deal with challenging child behaviours, parenting difficulties, family conflict and dealing with teenagers.
- Family therapy sessions to address child and family relationship issues, separation/divorce, co-parenting arrangements, step and blended families.
